

STEVEN CAMPBELL
Researcher

Steven Campbell is a consultant with extensive experience in the arts, education and culture sectors. His work reflects a belief in the important role of the arts in developing human and social potential, in addition to their intrinsic values. His consulting work includes research, strategic planning, and organizational development.

He was an invited keynote speaker at UNESCO's first world conference on arts education, and is the recipient of the Gaitskill Award from the Canadian Society for Education Through Art for his contribution to arts education. He was Director of Community Partnerships, and previously the Arts Education Officer, at the Ontario Arts Council. He has served on numerous boards of directors in the arts sector.
